Political Atmosphere Fills City; Wheels Come and Go

BY BILL JONES

The Garden City was the center of more than five great valleys Sunday evening. While downtown theater newsreels showed Sen. Dick Nixon leaving Missoula for Wheeling, W. Va., Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's special New York Central was entering town—and Sen. Paul Douglas' caravan was just down the road away.

This flurry of political activity came as a prelude and an aftermath to a week end of Homecoming festivities. Sen. Douglas spoke Friday evening and Gen. Eisenhower talked Sunday night. In the following resume the Kaimin gives you a recap of the politicians' addresses, a few comments from MSU students, and news of local organized political action.

REPUBLICANS

It was the same "Ike" who captivated Chicago convention crowds that appeared in Missoula Sunday evening. As his campaign train entered East Missoula, the crowd, estimated by The Missoulian at 9,000, obtained a look at the Republican nominee until the train again headed west. At that time "Ike," with his arms upraised in the conventional political gesture, smiled and said goodbye to the throng.

The GOP presidential aspirant began his address by saying, "I like to avoid talking politics on Sunday." With the exception of a few kind words for Zales Ecton and Wellington Rankin, senatorial and representative candidates, he adhered to his policy.

"Ike" said he enjoyed speaking in college towns. Using his University audience as a keynote, he based his remarks on "youthful opportunity, initiative, and ingenuity." Besides various acclamations of "Americanism," he gave his listeners two war stories. The first was of an American sergeant in Normandy who devised a hedgerow slicer that would alleviate the possibility of German fire through a tank's underside. The high hedgerows would cause a tank to point upward if it attempted to go over the top. The slicer would clip off the hedgerow.

The second story inferred that the General received more stimulation from visiting his front-line troops, than they received from his visit to them.

Following the talk, the crowd jostled through the railway yards to start the trek to their cars or homes. When asked of their opinion of the talk, many said that it was so short no definite opinion could be formed. A few had pointed comments, however.

Bert Guthrie, Choteau: "I wish he would have talked politics. What he said was okay, but a political talk would have been better."

Lee Ann Stewart, Missoula: "I think there was a definite note of sincerity in what he said."

Ronnie Osterholm, Lewistown: "It was a great thrill to see him, but I don't think he said anything of consequence."

"Young Republicans," a club of one week's standing, will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Student Union lounge. Dave Leuthold, Peder Holness and Mac Anderson, all of Billings, organized the club last Tuesday.

Mrs. Gladys Knowles, secretary of the Republican national committee, will speak at the meeting. Refreshments will be served all interested in attending the rally, said Leuthold.

This club, formed following Dick Nixon's visit to Missoula, and seemingly re-inspired by the visit of Dwight Eisenhower, is currently the most active political machine on campus. Mrs. Knowles, speaker for the Wednesday meeting, delivered a major address at the Republican national convention in Chicago this summer.

DEMOCRATS

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), Rep. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), plus an array of Democratic political hopefuls filed on the Student Union stage Friday night before a crowd of 600 townspeople and students.

Senator Douglas was heralded as the speaker of the evening. In actuality, he was anti-climatic. Talks by Missoula Democratic officials, Willard Fraser, Lee Metcalf, and Mike Mansfield preceded the Douglas oration.

Rep. Mike Mansfield led into the Korea subject by emphasizing, "At heart I'm an isolationist. I'd like to let the rest of the world go by. But I've got to be practical too."

He said three possibilities exist in Korea. 1. To invade Red China. 2. To pull out. 3. To establish an honorable peace. The first, he inferred, would lead to all-out warfare in which the U. S. government could possibly become communistic. The second would mean that Russian influence would sweep that section of Asia. The third is the most feasible possibility, according to Mansfield.

When speaking about the Marshall plan, Mansfield said, "I'm all for it." At this point, Senator Douglas led the group in applause. Mansfield continued, "The test is, whether or not the country in question opposes Moscow."

(Following the rally, Dick Fletcher and Tom Lindeman, Billings, violently opposed this statement as they said, "A negative policy won't work—it's no good. Many tests are of much more importance than 'whether they oppose Moscow.'")

Douglas, a large man with flowing white hair, inserted the same type wit into his speech that Stevenson has used throughout his campaign. The Illinois senator said, "When Eisenhower took off his uniform, he made the same mistake as many servicemen . . . he got into bad company. He married into the wrong party. When Ike met mother-in-law Bob Taft on the love seat at Morningside Heights, he signed on the dotted line and agreed that he thought just like mother-in-law on domestic issues."

Douglas continued, "Ike said there were only differences of degree between he and Taft on matters of foreign policy. Since then, the surrender has become more complete every day."

Senator Douglas reviewed Democratic policies, lauded public projects, social security, and other party measures, then said, "And I want Mansfield elected to help Adlai Stevenson clean this situation up."

Following the rally, a few students asked Douglas what he meant. William Heintz, Lewistown, asked, "Does this situation you want cleaned up exist now in Washington?"

Douglas said, "There has been some corruption in Washington. In the RFC deal the Democrats got the blame and the Republicans got the money. Stevenson can clean up the mess."

Alum Establishes Award to Promote MSU Traditions

Although students' interest in "Singing on the Steps" has at times waned, the interest shown in MSU students by the SOS founder lingers on. Robert Sibley, engineering professor at MSU, 1903-07, has established an Award of Merit to be presented annually to the MSU student doing the most "to forward the traditions and aspirations of MSU."

Judges for the annual contest will be the President of MSU, President of ASMSU, and Chairman of Traditions Board. The award will be presented at the last SOS of the year.

The plaque, bronze on a mahogany base, will be similar to the "Sibley Award," the top national recognition for excellence of magazines published by college and university alumni organizations.

Sibley founded "Singing on the Steps" at MSU in 1903. Since that time students have answered the toll of the Main Hall bell at 7:30 p.m. to sing school and popular songs. As the bell sounds eight times, signifying 8 p.m., the crowd disperses, humming "College Chums."

"College Chums" was written by Sibley. At the 1952 national convention of the American Alumni council (Sibley is past president) he taught the Montana song to 200 representatives of all of the nation's major universities.

Enrollment Reaches 2,115; Follows Trend

Fall quarter enrollment at MSU reached 2,115 last week, the registrar's office reported yesterday. The total includes 1,444 men and 671 women.

This figure is more than 100 over the estimates used last spring in compiling University budgets for 1952-53. The increase is the result of a sharp upswing in freshman enrollment.

There are 230 World War II veterans enrolled this quarter, less than half as many as last year. However, 65 veterans of the Korean war are enrolled.

Long-range surveys after World War II indicated decreasing enrollments in colleges through 1952-53 and increasing enrollments thereafter. At MSU the pattern has held true, with the present 2,115 total comparing with 2,367 a year ago. The large freshman class shows the beginning of a trend which is expected to double enrollment by 1960. The largest classes now in grade and high schools will be attending college in 1960.

Wildlife Officials Inspect MSU Unit

Two U. S. Fish and Wildlife officials from Washington, D. C., were at the University last week to inspect the work of the wildlife research unit. The two men, Dr. Dan L. Leedy and Dr. Durward Allen, made the trip by plane from Alaska after having made an inspection of wildlife facilities at Fairbanks.

Other fish and wildlife men who were visiting here at the same time were Bob Cooney of the State Fish and Game Commission in Helena, who is also a research associate in wildlife at the University; Dr. Paul F. Hickie, Denver; and Dr. J. S. Gashwiler, Salt Lake City. Both of the latter men are with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The group accompanied MSU faculty members, Dr. Phillip L. Wright and Prof. Melvin Morris, to local areas for a tour of wildlife conditions.

Busse Ticket Sales Start; Burnell Dance Chairman

Tickets are now on sale in the Student Union and Hefte's Music shop for the Henry Busse dance at the Student Union, Friday, Oct. 6. Prices are $2.50 a couple and $1.25 for single admission. Harry Burnell, Kalispell, is chairman of the dance.

This year there will be no concert appearance by the orchestra. Dancing will be from 8 to 12 in the Gold room.

Henry Busse came to America in 1912 from Holland where he was born. He began his career here with the Savoy hotel orchestra. Later he joined Paul Whitman.

Forestry Students Help Fight Fires During Week End

Between 25 and 30 forestry school students were recruited by the U. S. Forest Service to help fight a large forest fire over the weekend. The fire, which began late in the week, was burning in a "blowdown" area up the Blackfoot river near Ovando.

Most of the students were back in Missoula by Monday.

The homecoming barbecue was very nearly a casualty of the forest fire as forestry-student help was scarce. However, at the last minute some forestry students returned from a fire up the Bitterroot; and, with this augmented force, barbecue specialist "Monk" DeJarnette got the big feed ready on schedule.

Forum Scheduled By SCA Panel

"To Join or Not to Join," that is the question confronting Student Christian association panel members at their meeting tonight. The panel, selected to discuss the fraternity-sorority question, will start at 7:30 tonight in the Bitterroot room.

Program chairman Dick Fletcher, Billings, said Mickey Mannen, Brady, will lead the panel. Students who will speak are Patty Walker, Scobey; Shirley Leffler, Missoula; Don Cameron and Kim Forman, both of Miles City.

Alums Return to Campus for Annual Homecoming; Hudson Crowned Queen

Approximately 800 alumni returned to the campus last week end for the 34th annual Homecoming which honored the Classes of 1902 and 1927.

The Homecoming sendoff started with a 50th reunion dinner for the Class of 1902 Friday night. Andy Cogswell, public service director, said that it is likely that reunion dinners of the fiftieth and twenty-fifth classes will be a regular feature of Homecoming in future years.

Included on the Saturday agenda was a family reunion breakfast, the Homecoming parade, a barbecue and the MSU-BYU football game. Receptions, open houses and an informal dance ended the festivities.

Highlighting the half-time of the game was the crowning of New hall's candidate, Kathryn Hudson, Rapid City, S. D., as Homecoming queen. Delta Delta Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon took top honors by winning the trophy for the best float entered in the parade. No trophy was awarded to the best school float this year because not enough schools entered the contest.

The bonfire rally staged Friday night had one of the largest turnouts in recent years. Coach Ed Chinske and Captain Harold Maus spoke at the rally which also featured the band.

Many alumni, walking through the University area, stopped at the bonfire to join MSU students in songs.

Election Petitions Ready for Frosh

Petitions for freshman class officers may be picked up starting today in the Student Union business office, Jumbo, Corbin, North, and South hall offices. These petitions must be returned by Saturday noon to the business office with 20 freshman signatures. More than 20 are advisable as some names might be invalid.

LAST ENTRANCE EXAMS SLATED FOR WEDNESDAY

Freshman and transfer students who have not taken their general entrance exams must take them Wednesday. The general entrance exam will start at 3 p.m. in Science hall 107. The English placement test will start at 3 p.m. Thursday. Excuses from classes will be issued by the examiner.

Got Something to Say? Let's Hear From You...

In the past the Kaimin has had occasions to flourish with student comments by virtue of "Letters to the Editor." Student opinions have been published in the Kaimin on topics ranging from "McCarthyism" to the plight of freshmen women. But as yet the Kaimin has had no "takers."

We know you have opinions and for those opinions we open the columns of the Kaimin for your "Letters to the Editor." But while we open our columns we make rules you must follow:

1. All letters must be typewritten and signed.
2. Your letters may not be more than 250 words. If so we reserve the right to condense.
3. Letters must be mailed or delivered to the Kaimin office.

This is your opportunity to speak, so what about your political beliefs, the Kaimin, Grizzly football, men or women, organizations, the "Younger Generation," and many other topics of constant campus discussion?—LK.

Dr. Hamilton Will Head MSU Theater.

Dr. Stanley Hamilton is the new director of the MSU theater, replacing Mr. Roy Heinz who is working on his doctor's degree at the University of Illinois.

Dr. Hamilton received his PhD from the University of Utah and came here from Santa Barbara College. He received his BA and MA degrees from the University of Iowa and was director of Play Shop at Purdue University.

During the war Dr. Hamilton was the entertainment director of China, Burma, and India theaters and while there went on seven tours of Asia with his company.

He later directed army radio station VU2Z and was a technician and actor in the University of Utah summer theater for four years. The summer theater produced opera and musical comedies which employ Broadway stars and local professional actors.

This summer session Dr. Hamilton directed the MSU little theater and will direct "Androcles and the Lion," "Death of a Salesman," and "Light Up the Sky" this year.

"There are a great many definitions for a woman, but the ones that I like best are: the weeper sex; a gold miner without a pan; no offense, I am not speaking about her looks; and finally, the skin you love to touch, if it doesn't put the touch on you."—Oregon State Daily Barometer.

"A $689,000 astronomy-physics building is expected to be completed by February. Besides classrooms, it will house three telescope domes, a darkroom and a planetarium, with plans for a 20-inch telescope to be built later as a class project."—San Diego State college Aztec.

"It's hard to say who is the most disappointed on the campus after Sunday's rally but certainly ASUI president Ray Cox had reason to feel blue. Instead of a cheering, shouting throng waiting to greet the football team, only about 150 people showed up to welcome the Vandals home."—Idaho Argonaut.

"Scheduled for completion about the middle of January is the new women's cooperative dormitory, the most recent addition to Idaho's extensive building program."—Idaho Argonaut.

"Instead of having a plain little rally at the University of Kansas, it seems that everyone waits until dark, then dons his nightshirt, does a traditional 'Snake Dance' down the street, and finally ends up by chanting yells at a bonfire. The dean of men, the dean of women, and the head of the state board of education don't have to do the snake dance. They get to ride in a car—but they, too, wear night-shirts."—Oregon Daily Emerald.

"I'd like to know what men you consider outstanding," sports pre-viewer Jan Houghton asked assistant coach Sam Tague in an interview this week. "Well," Tague answered, "The two coaches stand out—they're the fattest on the field."—The Whitworthian.

"Montana, in their second year as Skyline members are almost a cinch to better their position in the conference and can be looked to for stronger competition to the other members."—U. of Wyoming Branding Iron.

Conoco Offers Yellowstone Jobs

The Continental Oil company will have openings this summer at Yellowstone Park for seven managers and seven five-man crews. The managers get $200 a month, lodging, and a bonus, plus a guaranteed life-time job. Also, the wives of the men in the station are guaranteed a job.

Mr. Willis Johnson, division manager for Continental Oil, will come here soon with T. S. Povah to interview interested students.

Students who wish to be interviewed, contact Mrs. Kay Reardon at the placement bureau no later than Wednesday, October 8.

ENGLISH CLUB WILL MEET

The English club will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Bitter-root room of the Student Union. The meetings are open to all students, faculty members, and townspeople who wish to attend. The English club will meet every Tuesday during autumn quarter.

MSU Faculty Adds Eight New Members

Eight new appointments to the MSU faculty were announced yesterday by Pres. Carl McFarland.

Irving Boekelheide will join the staff as an assistant professor of physics. Mr. Boekelheide is a graduate of Dakota Wesleyan. He received his MA at the University of Minnesota and his PhD at the University of Iowa.

James B. Wright, who will serve as a graduate assistant in physics, received his bachelor's degree at MSU in 1950.

Eugene Pfrommer, graduate assistant in sociology, was awarded his BS at Purdue university.

Joel Story, graduate assistant in music, graduated from MSU in 1948. He taught music at Big Timber before joining the MSU staff this fall.

Mary Ford DeLand will serve as assistant cataloguer in the Library. Miss DeLand received her B.A. at the University of Wyoming, and her B.S. in library science at the University of Washington.

Mrs. Richard S. Baker, of Lewistown, has been appointed assistant head resident of North hall. Mrs. Baker attended Grinnell University.

William H. Coldiron, assistant professor, and Erwin Anzjon, instructor, have been added to the staff of the School of Law on a part-time basis. Mr. Coldiron was a member of the staff last year. Mr. Anzjon is a graduate of the University of North Dakota. He received his L.L.B. at MSU and his L.L.M. at New York university.

STORE BOARD MEETS TODAY

Store board will meet at 4 p.m. today in the Eloise Knowles room.

MIEA To Meet Oct. 10 on Campus

The third annual fall meeting of the Montana Interscholastic Editorial association will begin Oct. 10. The two-day meeting will be conducted on the MSU campus, James L. C. Ford, dean of the Journalism school announced.

A program has been planned that will give the students and teachers the latest information on the editing and publishing of high school publications, he said.

It is expected that registration for the meeting will exceed the 275 mark of last year's meeting.

A dinner and entertainment program is scheduled for the students, teachers and chaperones for Friday night, Dean Ford stated. One of the oldest organizations of its type, the MIEA was founded in 1917.

JOBLESS FALL GRADS REQUESTED TO REGISTER

"Students desiring assistance in finding a job after fall quarter graduation should register with the placement bureau soon," Paul Chumrau, bureau director, said yesterday.

"The reason for this," he said, "is that most of the companies that send representatives to the campus to interview seniors will be coming earlier this year than they have previously."

PLAY TRYOUTS SCHEDULED

Tryouts for the fall production "Androcles and the Lion" will be at Simpkins theater this afternoon at 3 o'clock and tonight at 7:30. Those interested in working backstage are asked to be at the theater at the same time. All students interested are urged to try out for the parts, Dr. Stanley Hamilton, director, said.

BYU Victory Gives Cougars Tie for Lead

Skyline Eight football standings reached a decisive point after last week end's games in the conference. Wyoming and BYU firmly cemented their positions as the two top teams in the conference with impressive wins. Wyoming stopped a tough Utah State team, 14-0, while Brigham Young scored a 28-7 win over the Montana Grizzlies at Missoula.

Other league games saw Colorado A and M break into the standings with a 28-6 victory over Denver. Utah, the defending champion, dropped a 27-0 game to Arizona, while New Mexico toppled New Mexico Aggies, 23-0.

This week's games should also prove to be interesting for fans. BYU plays Utah and Wyoming meets the Colorado Aggies. Utah was tough against Oregon State and Idaho, and will be out to break into the standings with a win against the Cougars.

Colorado Aggies' decisive win over Denver shows that they will be tough opposition against Wyoming. Denver and Montana, generally conceded to be also-rans, play each other in the Colorado capital Saturday, while Utah State plays a non-league game against Idaho.

Brigham Young Humbles Grizzlies Before Large Homecoming Crowd

Yanks Beat Bums

The New York Yankees pulled themselves up by their bootstraps to capture a 3-2 victory from the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday to even the World series at three wins apiece.

Vic Raschi pitched the Yanks to victory with an eight hitter. Duke Snider poled two homers off the big Yank for the only Brooklyn scores. Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle hit homers for the Yanks. Raschi drove in the other run with a single off the leg of losing pitcher Billy Loes to score Gene Woodling.

Neither Manager Chuck Dressen of Brooklyn or Casey Stengel of the Yanks was sure of his pitcher for today. Dressen may come back with either Joe Black or Preacher Roe, while Stengel's choice will probably be Ed Lopat.

BY BOB CHESNOVER
More than 7,000 Montana Homecoming fans left Dornblaser field Saturday afternoon somewhat disappointed in the Grizzly-Brigham Young grid contest. The reason for the Homecoming disappointment was not only the 28-to-7 Brigham Young victory, but the Grizzlies' failure to score with the breaks in their favor, and their poor pass defense.

Many fans commented that it was the worst game the Grizzlies had played all year. Their offense was poor and their defense was lax at critical moments. The Grizzlies did, however, put together an offensive drive that carried them 85 yards to the BYU end zone for their first touchdown of the 1952 season.

Probably the biggest factors attributing to the Grizzly defeat was the poor passing offense and defense. The Cougars completed nine of eighteen passes for a total of 81 yards and a touchdown. The Grizzlies didn't complete a pass all afternoon and had three intercepted, one for a touchdown.

The most thrilling minutes of the game for the Grizzly fans was the first Grizzly score of the season. The Grizzlies started on their 15-yard line when Dean Brott broke loose for Montana's longest run of the day, 42 yards into BYU territory. Bob Dantic and Bo Laird put the ball into scoring position and then two twisting bucks by Hal Gompf gave the Grizzlies their first score of the year. Gerlinger added the extra point.

The Cougars scored eight minutes after the opening whistle by intercepting a Grizzly pass, then combining a series of pass and ground plays with Cougar Satterfield scoring.

The Grizzlies muffed opportunities to tie the score twice in the second quarter. First when Murdo Campbell's pass interception and a series of ground plays took the Grizzlies deep into Cougar territory only to lose the ball on downs. Next Grizzly Bob Crumley recovered a BYU fumble on their four, but in vain, as the Grizzlies failed in four attempts.

From then until the fourth quarter the two teams battled on even terms.

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

JUST WHAT GOOD ARE PROFITS ?

During the last 20 years a great many complimentary things have been said about profits. Left Wing propaganda has been so successful that many honest Americans were actually beginning to wonder if maybe there wasn't something evil about profits after all. But the answer is plain if we understand one of the most important functions of profits in our economy. It is simply this:

The chance for profit constantly encourages the development of new and improved products. Because of the competition for profits, every business strives to put out better and more useful products, with greater efficiency, at lower prices. (At Union Oil, for example, we're spending $10,000 per day on research—and our competitors work just as hard as we do on product improvement.)

Because of this essential function of profit the American people have better products in greater abundance than the people of any other country. As a consequence, we enjoy the highest standard of living the world has ever known.

It's not hard to see, then, why the profit motive must be preserved. Yet present tax policies and government controls are discouraging production by destroying the profit motive. And without this incentive we Americans cannot possibly show the progress in the future that we have shown in the past.
